Mid-western feed needed

'Declare disaster area' cattlemen plead

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Valley supervisor John Murphy will ask the board of supervisors today to consider a request from local cattlemen to declare Alameda County a disaster area because of the drought.

If the supervisors agree, the request will be forwarded to the Governor's office, and, with his concurrence, to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

If approved, it will release mid-Western feed "at a reasonable figure,"according to local cattleman John Cronin, to be used to feed the county's breeding stock.

The grains will not be used to feed salable, "feed lot" stock, but will enable ranchers to "keep their cows" used for future generation of cattle.

Local ranchers have been selling calves at 50 to 75 pounds less than their weight when purchased last August and September, according to Cronin. The stock should have been 75 pounds heavier by now and 250 to 300 pounds above their purchase weight when sold in June.

Last week's snow and rain storm was not enough to turn things around, Cronin argued.

A half-inch of precipitation was dumped on his ranch in Dublin Canyon, and less than one-third an inch in Livermore. Two days of dry weather will burn it up, he said.

"There's no moisture in the valley. Two hot days (the week before the storm) burnt up everything," said Cronin.

Dollar figures on the valley's cattle and farming loss were not available, but the State wide estimate is more than $300 million. Contra Costa County ranchers have lost nearly ten million dollars.

Cattle sold in the last week cost the rancher about $80 a head, according to Cronin. "You can't feed $100 a ton hay to sell $150 a head cows," he said.

If the federal government accepts the county as a disaster area, the reduced price for feed will allow cattlemen to keep their breeding stock.

"It costs a lot of money to raise your own replacements," said Cronin. Selling cows on the market now will reduce the price of hamburger, but raise the price in the long run, he argued.

Some ranchers recently tried selling their cows and calves at the Stockton auction, but the cows, starved for nourishment, rejected their calves. Unless they can be paired, they cannot be sold since a cow will reject another cow's offspring.

Declaring the county a disaster area also will allow farmers to borrow money from the government at eight or nine percent interest.

That's still expensive, said Cronin, but repayment is spread over seven years.

Murphy was unavailable for comment yesterday.

Should city help with assessments?

'Urban line' proposed

PLEASANTON — If the city cuts off development in some areas for the next 20 years it ought to help affected land owners receive lowered assessments from the county, councilman William Herlihy said last night.

Herlihy was talking about the "20 year urbanization line" proposed by the city staff as part of the general plan. The city would keep all of its urbanization, developing logically from existing development in adopting the urbanization line.

The rationale for it is a saving on city services such as police, fire and street maintenance by keeping the urbanization as compact as possible.

Some land owners who want to develop their vacant land won't be able to do it, but they will see higher taxes, said Herlihy.

City manager Bill Edgar said the city can send letters to the assessor declaring that the "line of urbanization" will be the city's official policy. He thought the letters would be effective.

Herlihy asked city planning director Robert Harris if the staff notified any potentially effected property owners about the proposed 20 year urbanization line.

"We have attempted to notify them through the newspapers," replied Harris. "We think they are aware of it."

Harris also told the council that there is a big demand in Pleasanton for homes in $80,000-$100,000 large lots. The city could zone a liberal amount of them without changing the announced general plan ratio of 25 percent multiples and 75 percent detached single family houses.

$9.8 million lost in Contra Costa

Ranchers ask county for drought damage aid

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Cattlemen in the county have lost an estimated $9.8 million from drought - related causes and are seeking financial relief, say county officials.

William A Lokke

Ray Spear of the county Office of Emergency Services said the loss estimate was made at a meeting Friday by representatives of the Alameda - Contra Consta Cattlemen's Association.

Charles Hammond, assistant county administrator, said a report on the drought and its effect on county agriculture was to be made to county supervisors today.

The Board of Supervisors is expected to be asked to request that Contra Costa County be added to a list of counties seeking emergency loans from the federal Department of Agriculture.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. must be asked to add the county's name to the list in order for local farmers and ranchers to cash in on the federal loan subsidies.

Although this weekend there was a brief respite from the dry weather, the drought isn't considered over, Spear said.

Since August there's been only 3.67 inches of rainfall in the county, and that's just one-third of last year's 9.01 inches for the same period last year, Spear noted.

Monetary losses, Spear said, haven't affected fruit growers and farmers as much as ranchers.

The bulk of the $9.8 million estimated loss has gone for feed that wouldn't have been required later in the year, he stressed.

Doctors fighting effects of quake

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — The official death count in Guatemala's devastating earthquake surpassed 17,000 Monday night. Doctors pleaded for serum to fight an outbreak of typhoid and other diseases spread by contaminated food and water.

President Kjell Eugenio Laugerud told diplomats that 17,032 persons had been killed, 54,826 injured and 221,994 left homeless by Wednesday's giant earthquake and hundreds of aftershocks.

Unofficial sources said they expected other victims to be found beneath debris or landslides and predicted the final death toll could exceed 20,000.

The Agency for International Development in Washington reported U.S. aid to Guatemala totals more than $1.5 million and it said food stocks are now sufficient for short-term needs. Israel and eight Latin American countries also are pouring aid into this ravaged nation with a population of six million.

Disease, rain and chilly weather added to the miseries of homeless survivors.

Myers asks commission for agricultural zoning change

PLEASANTON — Ted Myers' request to rezone two acres of agricultural land on Santa Rita road near Valley Plaza to commercial zoning will come before the planning commission tomorrow.

Myers won a general plan amendment for the change on a 4-1 vote of the city council recently. Councilman Robert Philcox voted against Myers' request on grounds that it would overpopulate the Valley Plaza and Amador Center commercial area of the city.

A request for a use permit for a church on four acres southwest of Hopyard Road and Valley Trails Drive South, a change from multiple zoning, is also on the agenda. The planning commission meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Both applications also are on the agenda of the design review board, which meets at 7:30 p.m. in the justice court.

Frand Auf der Maur's proposal for a 48-unit apartment complex on 1.9 acres near 4089 Vineyard Avenue also will be seen by the design review board.

A crisis center — it works

Setting up a crisis intervention center at Valley Memorial Hospital is "like watching the minute hand of a watch — it goes very slowly," but it works, according to an official. See page 7 of today's Times for details.

One of five in U.S.

Lab physicist honored

LIVERMORE — Lawrence Livermore Laboratory Physicist William A. Lokke has been selected to receive the prestigious Lawrence Memorial Award for his substantial contributions to the U.S. effort in nuclear weapons research and development.

Lokke is one of five scientists selected by the Energy Research and Development Administration to receive the award for 1975. Each will receive a medal, citation and $5,000 for "especially meritorious contributions" in atomic energy research.

LLL Director Roger E. Batzel, in a congratulatory statement, said "William Lokke richly deserves the award. He has made fundamental, far-reaching contributions to the present strength of the U.S. defense posture."

The award was established in December, 1959 to perpetuate the memory of the late Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, inventor of the cyclotron and founder of the ERDA-supported laboratories bearing his name at Livermore and Berkeley. The awards are made by the ERDA on recommendation of its General Advisory Committee to scientists and engineers not more than 45 years of age.

Other researchers receiving the award include: Evan H. Appelman, Argonne National Laboratory; Charles E. Elderkin, Battelle Pacific Northwest Laboratory; Burton Richter, Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and Sanuel C. C. Ting, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Earlier in his career, Lokke developed major concepts in weapon design, and later created computer codes that have had broad application in the evolution of U.S. nuclear weapons design.

In 1967, he was appointed to lead the Spartan anti-ballistic missile warhead design program, proven successful in tests on Amchitka Island in 1971.

Lokke is currently division leader of a large nuclear weapon design group, and is a member of the Navy's Fleet Ballistic Missile Weapon System Steering Committee and of the ERDA Senior Reviewers Committee which reviews classified material.

Tax bill spurred Jordan to run for city council

(Editor's note: this is the second of a series of profiles on the seven candidates running for three seats on the Pleasanton City Council. Others will follow during the next couple of weeks.)

PLEASANTON — Taxes and communication are among the main focuses of Jim Jordan's campaign for city council.

"I decided to run for city council when I got my tax bill," Jordan told The Times. The candidate said citizens "may have to reassess our priorities and see what quality of life we want within our fiscal limitations."

An important element in the fiscal picture is the city's ability to attract industry and commerce to the tax base. Jordan thinks the city has not been spirited enough in the past in doing this. He would make an effort to contact clean, light industry personally and thinks that his experience as a magazine writer and editor will help him in this regard.

Another way to approach the fiscal pinch is to do without some facilities, said Jordan. "I realize it's not the popular thing to say we can't develop Youth Sports Park tomorrow, but that might be the reality," he said. "I enjoy park facilities, but if it drives us into bankruptcy, we can't do it."

However, in the case of park facilities a degree of volunteer work from citizens could prove valuable, said Jordan. "The Jaycees, for example, do a lot of good for the community with their volunteer projects. We might be able to get volunteers to turf parks and donate things."

Communication is also important, including telling the voters about the city's fiscal picture, Jordan believes. He would like to see the city publish a quarterly newsletter with information about projects underway and contemplated and a rundown on the city's state of finances. The newsletter should go to every city residence. He feels it would command more attention than local newspapers' information about government.

Jordan also would try conducting city council meetings around town when there are agenda items which affect various neighborhoods. "It will tell us if the community it is totally apathetic," he said. "I am going door to door during the campaign and discovering people do have opinions about local issues, but it is difficult to get them to express them."

Council members need to do more homework on the issues before them, said Jordan. There has not been any communication gap between staff and council, but there is a tendency by the staff to play down the negative aspects of staff proposals, as witnessed in the recent redevelopment issue, he said.

Jordan thinks he can correct this allegedly defective situation with his "leadership, use of common sense and fairness. I am in a communication business and I think I can improve communications in the community."

Jordan lives in Stoneridge and he said he has felt acutely the need for complete construction of the Las Positas overpass. The state built the "Berlin wall" of the Interstate 680 freeway dividing most of Pleasanton from its west side. The city should put lobbying pressure on the state highway department to finance the overpass.

Asked about what the city's priority should be on Peters Avenue extension, Jordan said he would rank Del Valle Parkway extension and Bernal Avenue extension much higher. Those two streets, when completed, would take through traffic around the downtown, freeing Main Street for shoppers' traffic.

"Private developers should be active in revitalizing the district. They should help pay for Peters Avenue. I'm not sure government should subsidize downtown business," said Jordan.

The Times asked Jordan his position on the controversy over how large the LAVWA sewer pipeline should be. Sizes range from 11 million gallons per day (no growth) to 13 or so mgd (slight growth) to 15 or 16 mgd.

"You don't want to make the pipe too small. Our game plan may change in a few years. It can't be answered until we know what to do. We are not ready for that kind of commitment, and neither are the other agencies. They don't know where they are going," said Jordan.

The proposed expansion of the Community Concerns Committee with its paid staff member has merit, but needs more study to determine how the city could finance it, he said.

$3, 300 stolen from Gardella's Liquors

LIVERMORE — Unknown thieves took $3,285.54 in cash, checks and other negotiables from an unlocked safe at Gardella's Liquor Store on South L Street during regular business hours Sunday.

Clerk Robert Nash discovered the loss when he attempted to get change for the cash register. The safe was left closed but unlocked because a new employe didn't know the combination.

Police said the safe was not visible from the counterz but constant opening and closing could have alerted customers to its presence. Taken were $1,655 in currency, $1,566.78 in checks marked "For deposit only," $46.17 in Mastercharge receipts and $17.59 in Bank of America charges.

Although the safe had apparently been wiped to avoid fingerprints, police found two — one on the dial, another on the door to the change drawer. Employes may be asked to take lie detector tests, police reported.

Police chief jostled aiding in arrest

PLEASANTON — Police Chief Walter McCloud was "kicked and pushed" by suspects he helped arrest while attemptihg to break up a group of rowdy juveniles Friday.

According to reports, McCloud plucked a marijuana cigarette from the hand of one juvenile among several youths loitering in the Express Liquors parking lot at 4363 First St. Friday night. He then called for back-up units to clear the lot.

Police arrested two men described as extremely intoxicated and combative. McCloud and Officer Craig Veteran subdued the pair, including tying one man's legs with a belt, and both were kicked during the arrest.

Arrested were Michael Duana Holmes, 19, of 4436 Seminole Way, and Frank Robert Dijos, 22, of 350 Rose Ave., both of Pleasanton. A baggie containing suspected marijuana was found in their possession.

Holmes was released with a citation, and Dijos was taken to Fairmont Hospital due to an extreme state of intoxication, police said.

Four more inmates escape Santa Rita Jail

PLEASANTON — Four pre-trial detainees escaped from the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center early Saturday, the sixth such escape from the facility this year.

A jail spokesman said the men were discovered missing at the 2 a.m. accounting. At 2:15 a.m., one of the men, Fulgencio Eres, 31, of Oakland, was found lying outside the fence with a broken ankle.

A second escapee, Bruce Edward Choyce, 25, of Berkeley, was apprehended at 4 a.m. at the Union 76 Station on Dublin Boulevard and Dougherty Road. The spokesman said Choyce was making a phone call at the time of his arrest.

Two other men remain at large. They are Wilbur Glover, 21, of Pittsburg, and Ernest Tagle, 27, of Hayward. Glover was facing charges of auto theft, burglary and receiving stolen property, while Tagle was charged with rape.

The jail spokesman said the men made their way out a window of their medium-security barracks and escaped over a fence.

Man arrested attempting to steal car

PLEASANTON — A 35-year-old construction worker was arrested while attempting to steal a car parked across from Hap's Restaurant on West Neal Street late Saturday night.

A bartender at Hap's told customer Frank Medeiros that a man was ransacking cars across the street. Medeiros, 51, of Maple Street in Livermore, ran to the lot and apprehended the suspect who was inside a car rummaging through the glove compartment.

Police arrived shortly thereafter and booked Charles Andrew Hageman, 35, of 786 Bonita Ave. in Pleasanton, on suspicion he tried to steal the car. Under questioning, Hageman told police he was too drunk to drive his company car home, so decided instead to take a vehicle from the parking lot.

$1,200 in valuables taken from Pico Street home

PLEASANTON — Guns, coins and records worth $1,205 were stolen from Stephen Michael Silva's Pico Street home Friday.

No point of forced entry was found. Among the missing items were a Mark 5 rifle valued at $500, a .357 Blackhawk rifle worth $280, a 12-gauge shotgun worth $120, and a .22-caliber Colt Peacemaker pistol worth $100.

Park fees may be up 'moderately'

East Bay Regional Park District fans may be paying "moderately higher" fees in the future, if the board believes the results of a study just completed.

The study by Tyler Research Associates of San Francisco notes, "A majority of EBRPD park visitors would be in favor of paying moderately higher entrance and-or facility fees to help finance improvements to, or expansion of, the park system."

The park district recently raised their rates at Del Valle Regional Park outside of Livermore. But at many other parks in the Alameda-Contra Costa County system, admission is free. There are usually fees for boat launching or rental, fishing and camping.

Many of the 2,200 people questioned about the park system would like to see more facilities, expansion of the system and more security. But almost everyone questioned who had used one of the parks was satisfied with the experience.

Most popular parks are Tilden in Berkeley with its lake, children's train ride, antique merry-go-round, beach, nature center, little farm and pony rides; centrally located Redwood in Oakland with its fields and trees beckoning picnickers; Temescal in Oakland and Chabot in Hayward, both offering swimming, fishing and other outdoor activities.

Loafing is one of the top sports in most parks. Some 92 per cent of park users admit to loafing on the lawn and 96 per cent take advantage of the picnic groves. Others enjoy sightseeing, hiking, swimming, playing outdoor sports, fishing and looking at exhibits in the nature center.

Free admission and parking was a big drawing point for the majority of park users. (The park system is supported by a tax of 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation, paid by residents of the district which includes Pleasanton, Dublin and San Ramon but not Livermore.)

Interviewers went to nine of the 29 East Bay Regional Parks, including Shadow Cliffs in Pleasanton, stopping people to ask them for opinions. There were 78 interviews completed at Shadow Cliffs among the 732 on-site interviews tallied up.

In addition, interviewers talked with 1,500 people by telephone and in their homes in cases where the individuals did not have a phone.

Tyler Associates concluded that "the EBRPD is doing an excellent job of attracting a large and representative number of district residents to its parks both overall and within each of the four sub-regions."

Two groups who use the parks less often are senior citizens and people without access to a car.

Suggestions for improving park use include:

- More intensive formal communications to tell people about the parks;
- Public transportation to and from the parks;
- Activities for seniors;
- Guarantees about personal safety in the parks, including better patrol.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) - A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the American public.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries - the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

ABANDONED IN 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $100,000.00 had been spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates.

These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collectors' items and have been appraised by a member of the Antique Appraisal Assoc. of America, Inc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

Now, after 38 years these full color 11"x14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 15 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Art Surplus, Dept. A9 ,4816 Mac Arthur Blvd. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. LIVERMORE — Livermore residents are turning into Monday-morning TV stars.

The roving videotape camera manned by Tom Heineman, Livermore Unified School District's media specialist, has been visiting school administrators' offices to tape speeches. It has been in classrooms to record childrens' activities in school. And now it's going into other tax-supported agencies to bring to the public a firsthand view of how their money is being spent.

The Livermore school district has a federal grant to buy TV equipment and run their closet-sized broadcasting station in East Avenue School.

The TV waves travel west of that school, so most local homes and schools except those far to the east can pick up Heineman's broadcasts over cable channel 8, 8:30 to 10 a.m. every day.

Monday morning is the time for special broadcasts of district and agency activities. This week and next, Arroyo Mocho School's Early Childhood Education program for kindergarten through third grade will be in the spotlight.

Lloyd Teel, the school principal, and Virginia Linford, parent head of the ECE program, narrate the "special." Children will be shown working individually and in small groups during the behind-the-scenes peek into an open-space elementary school.

On Tuesday, Feb. 23, preschoolers will have a special treat. Mrs. Elizabeth Quarterman at the Livermore Public Library will stage a story hour just for them.

The Monday morning specials, as well as the school district's daily broadcasts at the same time, include the schnol lunch menu for the week, meetings of community interest and a preview of several interesting educational programs.

When there's a school holiday on a Monday (such as the Feb. 16 holiday coming up), the district postpones its "special" until Tuesday. There will be no broadcasts during summer or Easter vacation.

But meanwhile, the district is inviting all Livermore tax-supported agencies to get in on the hour and a half of daily "air time."

Spring election ballot count should be rapid

PLEASANTON — Election results should come in rapidly again this year, according to the city's senior deputy city clerk Larry Miller.

The city recently announced a full list of 124 precinct workers to staff the city's 31 precincts in the election on March 2. The large number of precincts will enable the team of Miller and City Manager Bill Edgar at "election central" in city hall to tabulate the votes quickly.

In the last civic election two years ago, winners were known approximately 45 minutes after the polls closed at 8 p.m. Miller thinks the procedure will be just as rapid this year.

The speed is in great contrast to the 1972 municipal election when the city had only seven precincts and the winners were not known for certain until one precinct finished its counting at 3 a.m.

Each precinct will have an inspector, judge and two clerks to accomodate voters, the standard practice for local elections. Hand-counted ballots will be used. The inspectors earn $31.50 for their day's labor and judges and clerks get $28.50. Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

The turnout in the last election was around 50 percent. Miller didn't make a prediction about what it may be this year. There are seven candidates running for three city council seats, an unopposed city treasurer and a $1 million school bond issue in the Murray School District portion of the city. The extra tallying involved in counting the school bond issue may slow things a little, but results still should be known in the city council race by 9 p.m., said Miller.

Fiesta aids orphaned Hunter children

Gay Mexican costumes to brighten the fiesta benefit for the orphaned Hunter children are worn by Annette Kenny and Irene Wells. Frances Diaz (center) of the Latin Organization for Betterment will coordinate participation by the Livermore Ballet Folklorico

Displaying a deep concern for the Hunter children — 17 ydar-old Lori, and 10 year-old Cheryl who lost their parents in the tragic Pleasanton fire, Dec. 27— the women of St. Augustine's parish will stage a benefit for their continued welfare Sunday, Feb. 29 from 1 to 7 p.m. With the help of members of the Latin Organization for Betterment, the benefit will be in the form of a gala Mexican fiesta for the whole family. Mexican food of every description will be served. Game booths and "pinatas" will be set up for children with music and entertainment provided by Pleasanton's Second Collection and Livermore's Ballet Folklorico. No admission will be charged, but all money received from the sale of food or proceeds from the game booths will be turned over to the Hunter children.

Since the tragedy the children have been living with their uncle, Dick Lynch in Oakland, who has been named their guardian. Although Lynch is himself the father of seven children, he doesn't consider his action particularly unusual or the addition of two more children a burden in the least. He says his sister would have done the same for his seven if circumstances would have been reversed.

Money from the benefit, money already received through donations, and all insurance money has been placed in trust for the children's future education.

Lori, who will attend the fiesta with her uncle, is a senior at Amador High School and hopes to enter nurses training when she graduates. She puts in time weekly at the Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore as a junior volunteer.

Cheryl has been transfered to St. Pasquel's in Oakland where her cousins attend school.

Dick Lynch expressed a sincere appreciation for what he described as a "fantastic community." He was amazed when the members of the St. Augustine Women's Club called him to tell him of their plans. He would like to thank all the women involved in the planning in behalf of the Lori and Cheryl and his own family.

Plant Talk

By SUE JOHNSON

The outer leaves of my Boston fern are ragged. Can I cut them off? Yes, you can cut them off, but close to the top of the roots. The fronds have a life span of about nine months, and the fronds on the outside are the oldest as the fern grows from the center. The next layer of fronds will move into replace the old, and when older fronds are removed, new fronds will grow fuller and faster.

But if the end of the frond is broken, its growth is stopped. It is therefore important to cut the frond all the way back to the base, not just to the center. It might be wise to place the plant where it will not be hit or brushed against.

It may sound like a contradiction, but I like to give my fern a good shaking before each watering to remove dried leaves which may be caught in the fronds.

Can I divide my Boston fern? Boston ferns are difficult to divide successfully, and this operation should only be attempted by a veteran fern-hand.

What you can try instead, if you want to start a new fern, is try an easier method that takes a bit longer. Find the runners or shoots which dangle over the rim of the pot. Pin them down with a hair pin or paper clip.

These runners root quickly and in a few months form new plants which can be cut off and potted. Potting soil should be light and porous.

Should I water my fern from the top or the bottom? I prefer to gently lift the fronds and water very deeply with a long-spouted watering can being careful not to get water on the plant crown, which could cause rot. Remember to keep the soil moderately moist, not wet at all times.

Readers may address questions to me at Planties and Bloomers plant shop, 500 Main St., Pleasanton.

Import shop deluxe is rare treat

By REINA WHITNEY

In a little unobtrusive Pleasanton shop, towards the back, off Main Street, is an import shop deluxe, "The Galeria Ruiz." Run by a fascinating, knowledgeable connoisseur of fine art, Oriental ware, Indian turquoise jewelry, small choice antique items and beautiful dry floral arrangements, it is quite a welcome addition to the fascinating shops lining Main Street.

Juanita Ruiz, an American of latin origin came to settle in Pleasanton because of its proximity to her son's family in Livermore and to the Bancroft Library in Berkeley— in that order. The shop, choice as it is, is incidental to her wide variety of interests.

She proved to be a captivating history buff, especially regarding the Mexican contribution to our American history. It would be her ambition to make all Americans aware of the extensive contribution the Mexican people and their culture played in the foundation of the southwest and West of the United States in particular.

She has already done extensive research into the life of Eusebio Francisco Kino, a Jesuit priest who lived between 1645 and 1711. During his lifetime this Italian missionary founded missions in Senora, Mexico, and Arizona long before Junipero Serra transversed the terrain founding the famous Franciscan California missions.

One of the Padre Kino missions was the famous San Xavier del Bac in Tuscon, Ariz., which was the site of the marriage ceremony uniting the Bernals during the Anza expeditions.

So thorough has been Mrs. Ruiz' research into Father Kino's history her work has been recognized by permission to work among the rare collection archives of the Huntington Library in Los Angeles.

She now wanted to be near the a Bancroft Library to continue her research into lost documents or manuscripts that may have been stolen from the original sites, containing information very important to her in piecing together the historical picture.

She is proud to have been with the excavation party that unearthed Father Kino's body when it was finally found and authenticated in 1966. The successful discovery in the little town of Magdalena de Kino in Senora, Mexico, climaxed nearly 40 years of frustrating failures. At the time Juanita and her husband were operating a small motel in Guaymas in Baja California. Her innate curiosity, love of people and the challenge of new adventures, led to her intense interest into the history of this enchanting area.

She has written numerous historical accounts for the Los Angeles Times and for Desert Magazine, and has contributed valuable original manuscripts to the Huntington Library in her research hunts.

Juanita now lives alone in mobile home that still holds treasures from which she would never part. She says she has been involved in merchandising most of her life and a floral designer for 15 years. Her colorful dry arrangements blend with the Mexican tilmas (blankets) and Japanese vases as if they were made for each other.

She can give you a background of the Cahuilla Indians whose beautiful jewelry she features. The colorful "molas" made by the San Blas Indians of Panama will bring another articulate dialogue of their particular history and talents.

A visit to Galeria Ruiz turns into an enthralling history lesson when you're lucky enough to get Juunita there alone. But, more often than not, several customers will be crowded into her not too ample shop, browsing or getting that special attention they know they can expect by this charming, hospitable merchant.

Helping a customer make an attractive wall arrangement, advising another about a suitable gift while arranging a floral in a container another customer has brought in, are all part of her very personal service. The unhurried manner of her latin origin help the customer to relax and browse at will. Welcome, to Pleasanton, Junita and Galeria Ruiz.

Quirk or disability?

Does your child have a learning disability?

Or does she have a perfectly normal quirk in development that will go away in time?

It's silly to get upset over every little thing, yet important to discover disabilities early. Specialist Dolores Sargent explains how to tell the difference in a lecture, "What Is a Learning Disability?" to be held Wednesday, Feb. 11, at The Ark preschool, 4161 East Ave.

The free talk begins at 8 p.m. and refreshments will be served. The public is invited — no pre-registration is necessary.

The Times' Plant Talk Columnist Sue Johnson will cover the event and report her findings in future columns.

The World of Flowers is a Bill Graham presentation. Tickets are $1.50 in advance through all BASS outlets and $2.50 at the door. Children under 14 will be admitted for $1.

Opening lead — 5 ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Part of top-flight competition in any game includes the thrust and counterthrust of measures designed to embarrass the other side.

East's five-club opening was designed for that purpose. It worked far beyond his wildest dreams. South's double was primarily for penalty, but North decided a seven-card heart suit was worth a slam bid.

South should have passed at six hearts, but the solid spade suit was too much temptation. He went to six spades.

East won the first trick with the king of clubs and decided to shift to a trump. Three trump leads accounted for the trump suit while two hearts were shed from dummy. Then South cashed his ace of diamonds and went into a huddle to end all huddles. East surely held eight clubs. He had played three spades and a diamond. Was his other card another diamond or a heart? Finally South decided to play for a 4-0 heart break. He led a heart, stuck in dummy's nine and had thrown away a slam.

If South had thought clearly he would have realized that East would have doubled six spades to call for a heart lead if he didn't hold any hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oklahoma reader wants to know what our opening bid vulnerable is with:

♠ A K Q J 9 7 6 ♥ A 2 ♦ 7 6 5 ♣ 3.

We make the book opening bid of one spade. With two aces you should never — or at least almost never — preempt in the first seat.

Andrews reports

It's slow, but crisis center work progresses

LIVERMORE — Noting that setting up a crisis intervention center at Valley Memorial Hospital "is like watching the minute hand of a watch — it goes very slowly," VMH administrator Tom Andrews told members of the Valley Council for Mental Health Thursday night that progress is being made.

Andrews addressed the meeting at the council's invitation. The council has been working for more than two years to have a 24-hour crisis center established in the valley.

Mentally ill or suicidal patients currently are shuttled to Highland Hospital or Washington Hospital outside the valley.

A task force report issued last July discovered that such patients were not handled properly at VMH. It recommended:

- Emergency Room personnel at VMH be educated to recognize mental pathology and subtle emotional problems.
- Some relief be given to patients shuttled out of the valley for psychiatric services.
- VMH establish with the county a mental health crisis intervention center.

Andrews said a program to educate VMH personnel to mental health disorders has been drawn up. In-service training will begin in two weeks, the first of four sessions to be held two weeks apart.

Kay McKeown, director of Mental Health Service in the valley, has been working with the hospital program on the program.

"The focus is on primary needs. The staff will learn how to talk to a distressed person, what information to elicit, and how to discern whether a person needs immediate help," said McKeown.

Dr. Grant Syphers, pyschiatrist with the County Mental Health Service, and two other staff members will train the personnel.

Training will be updated in follow-up sessions twice a year.

Andrews said some progress has been made to stop the bouncing of patients from Valley to Washington to Highland Hospitals.

"We are doing our best to make sure Washington Hospital accepts all patients. There has been a tendency for them to reject Medi-Cal patients and send them on to Highland," said Andrews.

He said another difficulty occurs because the ambulance compnay is guaranteed payment if the patient is delivered to Highland, but may not be paid if delivered to Washington in Fremont.

Adnrews said VMH and the County Mental Health Service have been working closely on the details of a 24-hour crisis intervention center.

"We are pursuing an option to put trained psychiatric personnel on call 24 hours a day," said Andrews. "This is a less costly approach than hiring a full-time psychiatric social worker as a hospital employee."

From eight to ten volunteers (paid on a fee for service basis) would be needed to staff the program. The County Mental Health Service and local psychiatrists are checking the credentials of a dozen valley people who volunteered for the program.

"We don't know yet whether they will be psychiatric social workers, psychologists or psychiatrists," said Andrews.

The volunteers' credentials must be meshed with legal requirements.

But once staffed, the center would work like this: An emergency room staff member would detect a patient in need.

The mental health professional would interview the patient and recommend treatment to the attending emergency room physician.

The physician would make the final determination whether to send the patient on to Washington or Highland, send the patient to the County Mental Health Service in the valley, or direct the patient to seek follow-up care at the office of a valley mental health worker.

"The real purpose of the center," said Andrews, "is to put the patient into professional hands in the most agreeable and personal manner."

The option to hold a patient overnight at VMH for observation is now specifically prohibited by the medical staff by-laws.

The program will be evaluated after one year in operation but the VMH board must approve the program before it can begin.

Andrews warned the council, "This project is a long way from wired — it could fall on its face tomorrow."

But he said he thought the board would approve a volunteer program if it were staffed with qualified personnel and the costs are not too high.

"Some people don't want to get involved in mental health at all," said Andrews, adding, "Unfortunaely it's not a very popular subject."

To members of the Council who have worked long and hard to get the crisis intervention center off the ground, that may have been the understatement of the year.

Clinic celebrates anniversary

There will be a cake with one candle, and a wish to grow on.

The clinic plans to expand, adding new nurses and equipment as people become better informed about hypertension, and realize the need for keeping track of their blood pressure.

The clinic is open every Wednesday between 9 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. to help.

Claudette Lambert's discussion on Methods of Relaxation are scheduled every Wednesday at 9:45 and 10:45 a.m.

The Red Cross invites everyone to stop in to wish them good health and long life.

Maid pageant set

DUBLIN — The annual Maid of Dublin Pageant has been scheduled for Saturday, May 15, at the Sunol Country Club, according to the local chamber of commerce.

Sponsoring fees for the annual event will be the same as last year ($100). Sponsors may propose their own particular young woman, however, providing she meets the rules of the contest.

Those interested in backing a prospective Maid should call Ron Pacheco at 828-0822.

Dunbar wins in Africa

Diane Dunbar should be back in Pleasanton today after capturing the San Lam Cup gymnastics championship Saturday night in Johannesburg.

Her South African hosts appreciate talent, however, and they won't let her go. Not just yet.

America's 17-year old Olympic Games hopeful will stay on through Wednesday night, when she'll give a special exhibition of her sport.

Though she faces months of gruelling competition prior to the Olympics, she couldn't deny a request from the developing South African gymnastics movement.

"The South Africans are such fantastic hosts, and they've taken care of everything for this trip, that it's hard to say no to them," Gault explained.

Especially after Diane made a shambles of the San Lam Cup Saturday, capturing the overall championship, finishing first in bars and floor exercise, second in vault and third on the beam.

It was the highest finish ever for Diane in international competition. She wasn't challenged severly, since no communist bloc teams were invited to the meet. But after a mildly disappointing experience in the Pan Am Games last October, the triumph served notice she will be a bet to qualify for America's Olympic team come this May.

Diane and Louisiana's Mike Carter led a U.S. sweep of the San Lam Cup. They were selected to participate by the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, after South Africa requested two top American competitors.

"It was just my turn to go," explained Diane, when asked why she was chosen for the meet. "The U.S. gets a lot of requests for gymnasts to make these trips. The federation usually rotates the opportunities among the top girls in the country, and it was just my time."

Diane will jet into the Bay Area Friday night, 8 p.m., at San Francisco International Airport.

The Pleasanton Women's Club is planning a hero's welcome, similar to one she received after winning two medals at the Pan Am Games.

Two bus loads of friends and civic dignitaries will transported to the airport including mayor Ed Kinney and members of Pleasanton City Council Band members from Diane's Foothill High School, and teammates at the Diablo Gymnastic Clubs will also be on hand.

Dons again in top 10

For the first time since early in basketball season Amador Valley High has regained top 10 status in the polls.

The Dons are ranked 10th in the latest ratings released this morning by the East Bay Prep Writers Association.

Picked eighth at the start of the year, the Dons fell quickly from sight by losing six and winning just two during the exhibition schedule.

But they jumped from 13th to 10th today by winning their eighth and ninth straight EBAL ball games last week.

Amador takes its two - game league lead to Monte Vista Wednesday, and can virtually cinch an EBAL championship if it defeats Granada at home Friday.

The Matadors are 12th ranked in the East Bay this week. Granada faces Livermore tomorrow night at home, in a battle to break a second - place EBAL logjam. Both teams are 7-2 in the league.

With team followed by first place votes in parentheses, record, points and rank last week.

Bells of St. Mary's to greet 'Pokes' Wood

After nearly two weeks of heavy thinking, Livermore High's talented guard Ted Wood can relax a bit since deciding to give his future basketball services to St. Mary's College of Moraga, a decision he feels he won't live to regret.

Ted wasn't quick to accept the generous offer from St. Mary's coach Frank LaPorte, which includes a full-ride four-ydar scholarship to St. Mary's and a spot on the varsity basketball team as a freshman.

"I had to start seriously thinking about a college," Ted said after deciding on the offer, "And St. Mary's seemed so right."

With his excellent 3.97 grade point average through seven semesteers at Livermore, Wood could just as easily wait around and try for a bigger university. But that won't happen now.

LaPorte jumped the gun and laid it on the line to Ted after seeing him play in just one game, the Cowboys' early-season win over San Ramon.

"Coach (John) Jones had told me at the beginning of the season that coaches would be coming to scout, but that it would probably be in the second round," Ted recalled. "I had no idea that Coach LaPorte would be there for that game. It was a surprise to me."

Ted was hesitant to talk about the offer when news broke of it last week. But LaPorte was dead serious, and Ted saw an offer he couldn't refuse.

"I made the decision after the Amador game," recalls Ted. "He (LaPorte) came to me and sat down with my parents and I that night, and I decided right then to go there."

Many factors influenced Ted's decision, not the least of them the educational benefits he will receive. "I will probably go into Pre-Dentistry," Ted said. "They've got a brand new Biology lab there, and overall it's a really nice-looking college."

Basketball has not been the only sport in Ted's life. Before high school, he enjoyed varied athletic success in soccer and baseball. Ted made all-star teams in both sports, and was a member of the 13-year old Babe Ruth all-star team of 1971 that made it to the state championships in Wasco.

"The first time I started playing basketball competitively was in eighth grade," Ted commented. "Basketball has just kind of grown on me in the last few years."

In the East Bay Athletic League, soccer and basketball both occur in the winter seasons, so Ted made the decision to go with basketball largely after talking with then freshman coach Al Urbani.

Surprisingly, Ted was not a starter for that freshman team that went 10-2 and won the EBAL championship. It was not until the end of the season that Ted saw playing time as a starter. "I was a smaller player, I guess, and I hadn't started to develop yet," Ted explained. Now standing at 6'2", Ted was a meager 5'5" in 1972.

Ted still maintains a love for soccer. "I like both basketball and soccer equally, they're both super games to play," he remarked. "I lost my interest in baseball, because I guess I like the endurance sports better."

Jones is certainly glad that Ted picked basketball, although he didn't take particular notice of Ted until last year when Ted first made varsity. "It's pretty hard to notice a kid as a freshman unless he's seven feet tall," Jones pointed out.

"Ted's about the only guard I've ever had that can pass and dribble good enough to be a playmaking guard in college," Jones continued. "He's tall enough to be a college guard, and he still has room to grow."

"He has definitely helped me," Ted said. "He has shown me quite a bit in what I would have to do in terms of going to college. He has told me what coaches would be looking for and what I should work on, like passing or dribbling. It's just hard to explain all the ways he has helped me."

Eight Million Suffer From Migraine

Is it true that migraine headaches cause brain damage?

If you suffer from migraine you have enough trouble without worrying about brain damage - and there is no evidence that brain damage ever results.

Migraine accounts for a frightful number of headaches, and the number of sufferers in the United States alone is estimated at from 2 million to as high as 8 million.

Migraine is the "sick headache" type - classically, on one side of the head, but generally so severe as to leave you no choice but to suffer through it. There is nausea, extreme sensitivity to light, sometimes disturbances of vision, occasionally head noises, and other odd symptoms, besides the headache itself.

It is also noted that as many as half the children of migraine sufferers also have this trouble to some extent. It is also observed that sufferers usually are of intense, perfection types, and periods of stress trigger attacks. In some cases allergy seems to be involved, and some patients say that chocolate bothers them.

In addition, if a person feels himself becoming tense and "all wound up" a deliberate effort to relax and let things slide, instead of maintaining the pressure to accomplish too much, helps.

Knowing these factors can be helpful avoiding migraines. But once a migraine has started, there is little to do but rest quietly and try to relax.

It is also known that strong drugs should not be used but staying in a darkened room or covering the eyes with a cloth to shut out light often helps some.

The only truly effective course is to try and prevent these headaches instead of trying to find a remedy after they have started. Specialized chiropractic care is the choice of an ever increasing number of migraine sufferers.

Some of the most thrilling and truly rewarding professional experience I've had in chiropractic have come when an ex-migraine sufferer tells me that he or she has kicked the migraine habit.

IT'S HOME IMPROVEMENT TIME...

Taste Barrier Broken.

Struggle to get taste into low tar smoking ends suddenly with new 'Enriched Flavor'™ discovery for 9 mg. tar MERIT.

For years, dependency on tar for taste has created a taste barrier for low tar cigarettes.

Now that barrier has been broken.

Broken by a remarkable cigarette called MERIT. MERIT packs a radically-new 'Enriched Flavor' discovery developed after years of research by Philip Morris.

'Enriched Flavor' is so good at packing extra flavor into tobacco that MERIT actually delivers as much—or more—taste than cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tobacco–Not Special Filters–Ends "Low Tar, Good Taste" Search

Special "low tar, good taste" filters are what most other cigarette makers came up with to try to get flavor into low tar smoking.

And are still coming up with.

But the answer, the real answer, comes from the other end of smoking. The tobacco end.

By "cracking" tobacco smoke down into its various ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris discovered there are certain basic ingredients more important to taste than others.

Ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

By selecting these high quality flavor producers that are also low tar contributing, 'Enriched Flavor' was carefully developed, perfected and packed into the tobacco used to make MERIT.

The taste-test results were startling.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.
